PARNELL'S PEACHES.

Au Orchard that has not its Equal in the World.

West Point, April 3.—Your reporter has been recently visiting the several fruit farms in and around West Point, and gathering what information he could about fruit culture bere, and the effects of the late frost on the fruit. The beautiful weather of last February acted as a charm of the country of the co riful weather of last February acted as a charm on early vegetation, so much, that it placed peaches, peas, plums and other fruits and vegetables a month ahead of their usual time. Jack Frost also came in a month ahead also, and has prevented in a month ahead also, and has prevented us saving our peach crop intact, which was damaged considerably, but only in certain locations, but we shall have a good quantity of that delicious fruit, and a full crop of other ainds. We had the pleasure of visiting Mr. John H. Parnell's famous peach orchard, which never shown a disposition to make wel-come the visits of those who lived even in the immediate vicinity. His office was not given him through the influence of "electioneering," because he never asked any man for his vote. He was contains one hundred and twenty five thousand peach trees, besides other fruits. It is now the largest orchard in the world. Seventy thousand of these trees were planted this spring. The orchard now contains over seven hundred acres, legal mind that the people nominated and elected him. He soon gained the name of "hard Justice," and every law-yer in Arkansas referred to his decisions. varieties in which ripen from May until October. It is situated six miles below West Point, near the Alabama and Georgia cotton factory. The number of trees are now equally divided between two higher courts. He showed no sentiment in decision. He stood upon the platform of a law which he made a study, and no different locations; one orchard is on the northeast and the other is on the southwest slopes of the hills. This subdivis-ion of trees will, at the end of three years, enable Mr. Paruell to have a crop him. "The old man seems more than ever unsteady," remarked a lawyer as every year on either one or the other orchards. He has studied these two different locations so well, in regard to their different seasons for fruiting, that he is ations of a court much longer."
"I am not well to day," said the Judge, turning to the lawyers, "and any cases that you may have you will please dispatch them to the best, let me add unickest of your shifts." sure of success in the future. On the tract of land just planted he has some orchards which have never failed to bear a full crop, and he has seen fruit on that location when there has not been any in the South. This season the early peaches bloomed first, an unusual occurrence, as it is generally the late fruit that blooms first. This is the cause for the unusually feeble, and no one thought of a scheme to prolong a discussion, for all the lawyers had learned to reverence early peaches to be more damaged than the late ones. Peaches now are the size him.
"Who is the woman?" asked the Judge. "Who is defending her?"
the po defense, your Honor," the of marbles, and wherever they escaped will make a full and early crop. We hope, therefore, to have the first peaches this season, and to be at our post ahead again. West Point has had the honor of my guilt. No man can defend me," and she looked at the magistrate with a curibeing first in market every year except two in the last ten years. We are all glad to see what a good showing the fruit-growers around Griffin are making, willing to submit my case. I am dying of consumption, Judge, and I know that and who are doing so much for fruit cul-ture, and letting the world know how wonderfully her soil is suited for those a hollow, hacking cough, and drew around her an old black shawl that she

We wish we could persuade our West Point friends to try their hand, and ask in northern and foreign capital to help develop her hidden treasures in fruit. It is not on account of deficiency of fine op this new southern enterprise, but she has not got sufficient fruit growers to further its cause, but is all left to two or three individuals. There is as fine fruit soil here as there is in the world, especially it is adapted to grapes, peaches, plums, apples and small fruits. The Japan persimmon also succeeds finely here. But if this soil was in any other foreign country, it would now be teemop this new southern enterprise, but she here. But if this soil was in any other foreign country, it would now be teeming with all kinds of fruits, whilst cotton culture would be in the background, as it is in Italy at the present day. The land here has so many diversified soils such as sandy, red clay, gravelly and mulatto, makes it remarkably suited for all kinds of fruit, except tropical; so that it would not be difficult to satisfy any foreign fruit-grower who would come here to settle and embark in that indus-It must not be forgotten that West Point was the birth-place for extensive peach culture in the South, as Mr. John H. Parnell first commenced growing and shipping peaches to Northern markets fourteen years ago, when Southern fruit was considered a curiosity there. But we can grow other fruits to perfection here, as well as peaches. All the small fruits do well, such as strawberries, black-persies, also the great fruit recently in was considered a curiosity there. But we can grow other fruits to perfection here, as well as peaches. All the small fruits do well, such as strawberries, blackberries; also the great fruit recently introduced from Japan, the Japan persimmon, which grows to perfection. Mr. Parnell intends to plant largely of that fruit, he having fruited it very successfully last season, having grown thirteen persimmons on a tree not over four feet. persimmons on a tree not over four feet high, each one measuring at least nine inches in circumference. Your reporter asked Mr. Parnell about the average price per one-third bushel crate of peach es he received in New York for the last two seasons he has shipped, and what was the largest sum he received from a given number of trees or acres. Mr. P. said, that in 1880, he received from one dollar to ten dollars per one-third bushe crates, and the largest sum realized off of 700 trees, on five acres, was four thousand dollars. In 1882 he received from one dollar to three dollars per one-third bushel crate, and the largest sum realized off of 700 trees, was three thousand dollars.

That last season there was no waste i his orchards, because the fruit he could not ship green, he evaporated, for which he realized twenty cents per pound. This proves fruit growing cannot be overdone in the South for a long time to cone, if ever.

We only hope now that the example of the fruit growers of the South will be of the fruit growers of the South will be followed by thousands of others, both from the North and foreign countries, who will come and help build up and develop this great Southern country. There is land for all here.

An Astonishing Meteoric Story.

Mrs. Shepard became tired of her un-lettered husband, and they began to find that their tastes in almost everything ran in counter directions. Shepard attended A dispatch from Fort Worth, Tex., ds strictly to business, and Mrs. Shepard, who was not received with open arms by ted 16th, says: A dispatch from Wil-liams' Ranche, Brown County, says that who was not received with open arms by New Haven society, showed her contempt of the fashionable world, of which she had formerly been a belle, by purchasing a dog cart and a handsome pony, with which she appeared in the streets elegantly attired on every pleasant day. The woman naturally attracted admirers and among them one is said to be any at about two o'clock Sunday morning a great meteor fell in the outskirts of the town killing several head of cattle and destroying the dwelling house of Marti-me Z. Gancia, a Mexican berdsman, who with his family, consisting of a wife and five children, are buried beneath the and among them one is said to be an ruins. In its descent the meteor resembled a massive ball of fire and the shock aged and wealthy manufacturer of New Haven, and another a millionaire of New York, who frequents the Turf Club in that city. Shepard became jealous of his wife, with or without cause, and the result was that the two separated several months ago, and have not lived together since. Some three months since, the rumor that she was about to seek for bled a massive ball of fire and the shock was similar to that of an earthquake. It is still hot and steaming. It is embedding the earth probably 100 feet, and type era above the surface about 70 feet and will cover about one, and to present the concussion was terrific, nearly every window in hown being shattered. People were hurled violently from their beds, and goods in store-houses were thrown from the shelves. No lives were lost as far as known except the Mexican a divorce was first spread, a friend of Shepard's spoke to him on the subject. He cried like a baby then, and said that he had always been true to her, and lost as far as known, except the Mexican herdsman and his family, although sev-eral buildings fell to the ground. Catshould always been true to her, and should always love her devotedly. The cause for which the divorce was granted is said to be abandonment, Shepard making no counter charges. The general opinion is that ex-Governor Hubbard will gover recall the denunciation which tle fled in terror in every direction. The air was filled with sulphurous gas. The wildest confusion prevailed, as it was a long time before anybody could oven conjecture what it was. This is the largest meteor that has ever fallen, and who four years ago created a sensation by marrying Frederick Shepard, her father's illiterate coachman, has recalled public attention to her former infatuation by obtaining a divorce. The couple lived very happily for a time after the marriage, and a little girl came to cement their union. About two years ago they removed to New Haven, where Shepard started a large stable with mon-ey furnished by his wife and her friends. The stable yields quite a revenue to Shepard, who is still running it. They engaged a cozy cottage in a pleasant street, and here for a time all went well.

A Story of the Sternest Judge that Arkan The following are specimens of Bob Ingersoll's oration, delivered in a swallow tailed coat, over the body of J. G. Old Judge Greyson, a Justice of the Mills, a dead atheist, in Washington on Peace, was never known to smile. He came to Arkansas years ago, before Sunday: Again we are face to face with the great mystery that shrouds this world. We question, but there is no reworld. We question, but there is no re-ply. Out on the wide waste seas there drifts no spar. Over the desert of death the sphinx gazes forever, but never speaks. In the very May of life another speaks. In the very stay of the another heart has ceased to beat. Night has fallen upon noon, but he lived, he loved, he was loved. Wife and children pressed hind the bar, which, with his own hands, he had made, and every evening, just at their kisses on his lips. This is enough a certain time, he closed his books and went home. No one ever engaged him in private conversation, because, he would talk to no one. No one ever went the humblest grave.

He was always a child—sincere and frank—as full of hope as spring. He divided all time into to day and to-morrow. To morrow was without a cloud, and of to morrow he borrowed sunshine for to day.

He was my friend. He will remain so. The living often become estranged—the dead are true.

He was not a Christian. In the Eden of his hope there did not crawl and coil the serpent of eternal pain. In many languages he sought the thoughts of men, and for himself he solved the problems of the world: He accepted the philosophy of Auguste Comte. Humanity was his God-the human race the Supreme Being. In that Supreme Being he rested. He believed that we are indebted for what we enjoy to the labor, the self-denial, the heroism of the human race, and that as we have plucked the fruit of what others planted, we, in thankfulness, should plant for others yet to be. With him mmortality was the eternal consequences of his own good acts.

In the presence of death, how beliefs and dogmas wither and decay; loving words and deeds burst into blossom. Pluck from the tree of any life these flowers, and there remain but the barren thorns of bigotry and creed.

All wish for happiness beyond this life. All hope to meet again the loved and lost. In every heart there grows this sacred flower of eternal hope. Im-mortality is a word that hope through all ages has been whispering to love. The miracle of thought we cannot understand. The mystery of death and hope we can-not comprehend. This chaos called the world has never been explained. The golden bridge of life from gloom emerges and on shadow rests.

A VALUABLE MEDICINE.

Hunt's Remedy, - its Many Merits.

THERE are no diseases more prevalent, with perhaps, the exception of Consumption, in this ountry than the Kidney and Liver complaints: and to find a remedy that would effectually re-lieve them has long been the aim of many afflicted sufferers. Whether our habits as a peo-ple are conducive to these diseases, or whether they may result from the peculiarity of our climate, is beyond our comprehension, and is of little value since an efficacious remedy can be had; but of one thing we are sure, that the long-afflicted public will hall with joy the specific which has again and again proved its ability to effectually cope with and cradicate these dis-eases. The name of this medicine is Hunt's Remedy, and it is manufactured by the Hunt's Remedy Company of Providence. It is not often that mention of a patent medicine occurs in these columns; but, when one comes under our notice possessing such undoubted merits as the one of which we speak, we cannot refrain from giving it the credit it deserves. It cures when all other remedies fail, as it acts directly on the Kidneys, Liver, and Bowels, restoring them all at once to healthy action. It is sure to eradicate all diseases of the Kidneys, Bladder, Urinary Organs, - such as Gravel, Diabetes, Inconti-nence, Retention of the Urine. It has a wonderful effect on Weakness or Pain in the Back, eliable medicine extant for General Debility, Female Diseases, Disturbed Sleep, Loss of Appetite, and all complaints of the Urino-Genital Organs. Its efficacy in cases of that dreadful scourge and insidious destroyer, Bright's Diseaso of the Kidneys, has been remarkable; and, if its merits rested on its success in coping with that disease alone, it would be worthy of high rank as a public benefactor. In all diseases of the Liver, — as Billousness, Headache, Dyspepsia, Sour Stomach, and Costiveness—it quickly induces that organ to healthy action, and removes the causes at the same time. It is purely vegetable in composition, being entirely free from all mer-curial or mineral poisons, and possesses rare vir-tues as a remedy for Heart Disease and Rheumatism. We have neither time nor space to do this medicine full justice; but the public can obtain full , articulars in the shape of pamphlets and circulars by addressing Hunt's Remedy Company, Providence, R. I. —Scientific Times.

Oh, My Back!

That's a common expression and has a world of meaning. How much suffering is summed up in it.

The singular thing about it is, that pain in the backis occasioned by so many things. May be caused by kidney disease, liver complaint, consumption, cold, rheumatism, dyspepsia, over-work, nervous debility, &c.

Whatever the cause, don't neglect it. Something is wrong and needs prompt attention. No medicine has yet been discovered that will so quickly and surely cure such diseases as Brown's Iron Bitters, and it does this by commencing at the foundation, and making the blood pure and rich.

> Wm. P. Marshall, of Logansport, Indiana, writes : " My wife has for many years been troubled from pain in her back and general debility incident to her sex. She has taken one bottle of Brown's Iron Bitters, and I can truthfully say that she has been so much benefited that she pronounces it the only remedy of many medicines she has tried."

Leading physicians and clergymen use and recommend Brown's Iron Brran TERS. It has cured others suffering as you are, and it will cure you.
